OK, boatanchor fans! In the spirit of good old American competition, here is a FREE boatanchor list to go along with (or instead of, your choice) the pay-per-view boatanchor list. To subscribe, send a message to: "listserv@listserv.tempe.gov". In the body of your message, include the one line: "subscribe boatanchors your name". Use your real name, not your e-mail address. You will receive further instructions via email to complete your request. Have fun!

Hi folks.

I finally got around to adding the next year to my Glowbug web page.

<http://www.barepower.net/~carreiro/>

This time around: 1957 Receiver, Transmitter and Amplifier Schematics.

I even added a few "basic" informational schematics from the technical sections for reference.

There's a one tube regen circuit, a few multi-tube superhets, and a bunch of transmitter and amplifier circuits.

I'm getting close to running out of allocated space on my provider's server. Soon, I will start removing some of the older items from the page, with an indication of what has been backed off. If you find a needed file/picture no-longer present on the page, please drop me a note and I can forward it to you via e-mail. You may want to check the page and grab any files needed.

Again, if anyone wants a specific article / picture / schematic from any of the sources in my Glowbug bibliography, just let me know, I'd be happy to forward or post on the page.

73 and keep ticklin the ether
